#ENCOUNTER/#ENGAGE

When you first have children, they talk about the challenges of parenting... the struggles of a baby waking in the night, the toddler who won't stay in their bed, the cost of childcare, injuries from sports... Having to take off work to pick them up from school when they don't feel well, helping them with homework, a messy house, the never-ending laundry, the cost to buy school clothes, packing their lunches....

You watch their eyes light up on Christmas morning....and try to soak in the magic of those moments. You coach them in sports, rushing to practices and ballgames...and tote them all over the country to let them play the game they love...no matter how exhausting or expensive it becomes.

Life is just so busy that you rarely even stop to think what the end of those days looks like. In fact, it's not really even something you can wrap your mind around.
