Mission Focus

The South America Region is comprised of four fields: Andes North (Colombia, Venezuela, and Ecuador); Andes Central (Peru and Bolivia); Southern Cone (Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, and Paraguay); and the sub-region of Brazil. Spanish is the predominant language of most of the region, with Portuguese as the official language of Brazil. The Church of the Nazarene established work in Peru in 1914, the first official work in South America, and continued to open new works and register in new countries from the mid-1940s through the 1980s. There is a strong mission focus in South America, with many missionaries from that region serving around the world. Pray for the church planting process in South America, which will focus on cities without a Church of the Nazarene.
